Decmil Australia has commenced work on the project and is currently working with the Australian Government to finalise scope of works and associated timing.

Decmil CEO Scott Criddle said: “This second win on Manus Island demonstrates our proven capability to work on government projects and showcases our expertise in delivering buildings and infrastructure in offshore and remote locations.

“The contract expands our scope of works on Manus Island which is in addition to the existing $137 million contract for the Manus Island Offshore Processing centre at Lorengau (MOPC) awarded in July 2013.

“The win strengthens our diversification strategy away from reliance on the resources and oil & gas industries.

“Our proven delivery coupled with our strong relationship with the Department of Immigration and Border Protection has enabled us to achieve this significant win,” Mr Criddle said.
